What is a merchant solar system?

In the Merchant Model, the entity bears all costs associated with the solar installation. This includes equipment, installation, and ongoing maintenance. However, it also means that the owner reaps all the benefits, including any excess energy that can be sold back to the grid. How Does It Work?

What is a solar merchant model?

The Merchant Model involves the direct ownership of a solar energy system by the entity consuming the generated power. This model empowers the owner with complete control over the system, including installation, maintenance, and operation. What is the Solar Merchant Model?

Why should you buy a solar system?

Flexible financing and low monthly lease options can help you secure the best price for your solar system. By installing solar panels, you can also reduce your reliance on traditional energy sources. Power your home with emissions-free, renewable energy directly from the sun.

Who owns a solar system?

The owner also has the authority to make decisions regarding system upgrades or expansions. Under a PPA, the property owner does not own the solar system. Instead, a third-party provider installs and owns the system.

Who is responsible for a solar system?

The owner of the solar system assumes all risks, including equipment failures, maintenance costs, and potential changes in energy market prices. The third-party provider bears the responsibility for system maintenance and performance. This minimizes risk for the property owner.

Should you lease or buy a solar system?

But leasing might be best if you don't have the upfront cash for an installation, can't use the federal solar tax credit or don't qualify for loan options. Of the big leasing companies, our pick is SunPower, as it has the best review scores among large national leasing companies.
